If you're anything like us, the thought of going to the liquor store (especially around this time of year), is as dreadful as the supermarket or scraping your car after a freezing rain storm.

Wineonline.ca supports your desire to be a closet Grinch and relish your lazy nights. Sit back, relax, and order your vino from the comfort of your couch. The three-year-old site serves up a wide selection of local and international wines, most of which can be delivered within four business days.

Many of the wines are organic and/or biodynamic (come from a vineyard that adheres to certain farming protocols to ensure better soil fertility, crop nutrition, and pest, weed, and disease management), which is a nice complement to your raw vegetable, pre-holiday fast.

Featured this month is the 2004 Barbabelle from the Kreydenweiss winery. A smooth and silky organic red made from syrah grapes, it pairs perfectly with shepherd's pie, chili, ratatouille and hard cheeses.

$155 for a case of 12 at www.wineonline.ca.
